OBSERVERS SEE JUSTICES SPLIT ON AAA RULING

Forecast Based on Queries Asked by Conservative and Liberal Factions

ARGUMENTS CONTINUE

Speculation Rife on Outcome Of Case, With New Deal Program in Balance

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10—With arguments on the constitutionality of AAA still under way before the Supreme Court, any observers are already guessing today that the opinion would be divided.

They based their forecasts upon the somewhat slim ground that questions asked by the justices indicated another split between the "conservative" and "liberal" wings of the bench.

They found little evidence, however, indicating which way the majority of the court would go. The two men who have held the balance of power in past splits of this kind —Justices Hughes and Roberts — had kept silent.

Pointed Questions Asked

They were the subject of chief attention today as arguments continued between George Wharton Pepper, former Republican senator from Pennsylvania as counsel for the Hoosac Mills Corp., and Stanley Reed, solicitor general.

Pointed and sometimes almost argumentative questions about the delegation of power under the new deal crop control program came from the conservative justices yesterday when Reed opened the case.

On the other hand, it seemed to at least some spectators that questions asked of Reed by Justices Brandies and Stone, usually classed as liberals, had been distinctly friendly.

Speculation on the decision rivaled that in the gold and NRA cases last year, with much of the new deal program depending upon the outcome and many politicians ready to concede that the 1936 election might also be at stake.

Concluding arguments were being made today, with the court expected to rule some time in January. It could throw out the entire AAA, outlaw the taxes levied on processors to pay benefits to farmers for controlling production, or reach several other possible decisions.

Argues Against Taxes

Pepper said the act was an effort to regulate a purely local activity, agricultural production.

He argued that the taxes were not levied to raise revenue, but to provide federal regulation. The Hoosac case also was built upon the contention that congress authorized an unconstitutional delegation of taxing power to the secretary of agriculture.

Reed maintained the act really performed two functions. The taxes, he said, were wholly within constitution limitations and levied to raise revenue. Crop regulation, he argued, was not involved in the Hoosac case. But he said if the court decided to consider that also, regulation was fully justified for the "general welfare."

Justice McReynolds asked Reed how the secretary of agriculture arrived at the "fair exchange value" which the act aims to obtain for farm products. When Reed said it was based on prices farmers pay for goods McReynolds remarked sharply.

"The farmer buys silk stockings and woolen coats. With which are you going to compare?"

Later Justice Brandies suggested the methods used had been "com-

Farmers Plan Policies After Hearing Roosevelt

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10. — American farm bureau federation leaders charged with responsibility for formulating the 1936 policies of the organization today gauged reactions of "dirt farmers" to the President's defense of his new deal program for agriculture.

President Roosevelt made a flying trip from his home in Warm Springs, Ga., yesterday, to address 15,000 delegates from 37 states at their 17th annual convention and returned to Washington after a brief stop at Notre Dame university in South Bend, Ind.

The chief executive told the farmers his administration had increased farm income three billion dollars in the first two and a half years, predicted an increase in export trade with Canada as a result of the recent tariff treaty and claimed that city dwellers would share with the farms in a revival of agriculture.

President Edward A. O'Neal of the federation replied with a pledge of support for the administration farm program.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, who sat on the speakers' platform during the President's address, was on today's convention program.

A federation spokesman said the farmers speculated whether they would reply to critics who termed the AAA program an "economics of scarcity" with the argument furnished by the recently announced corn-hog agreement for next year.

PUBLISHER SLAIN IN MINNEAPOLIS

Crusading Editor, Outspoken Foe of Gov. Olson, Shot Down; Suspects Held

By The Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 10.—The assassination he predicted in the last issue of his weekly newspaper today had overtaken Editor Walter Liggett, stormy petrel of Minnesota politics and bitter foe of Gov, Floyd B. Olson.

A killer in a darkened car last night poured five bullets into Liggett's back, as, accompanied by his wife and 10-year-old daughter, Marda, he drove into an alley near his home.

Liggett, his arms full of groceries and with a pistol in his pocket, fell dying as his daughter cried, "don't die, Daddy, don't die."

Police Hold Suspect

At police headquarters Mrs. Liggett sobbed, "I will remember the killer's face as long as I live."

The police held Isadore Blumenfeld, alias Kid Cann, for questioning in the case after he submitted voluntarily for examination. He was exonerated a year ago after an investigation of the passing of ransom money from the $200,000 Charles F. Urschel kidnaping case.

Blumenfeld, identified by the police as connected with the liquor business here, said he was in a barber shop shortly before the killing and could not have reached the scene in time to fire the fatal shots.

Also under investigation was a telephone conversation which Detective Captain Al Marxen said said Liggett had yesterday with Meyer Schuldberg, president of a liquor distributing company.

Marxen said Liggett informed Schuldberg he was writing a series of articles on Schuldberg's activities. He said Schuldberg bet the editor $500 he was wrong in his premises and suggested Liggett give government operatives his evidence if he thought it was true. In a formal statement to police Schuldberg said Liggett demanded $1,500 to "lay off."

Demanded Ousting of Olson

Blumenfeld said he was introducted to Liggett by Mrs. Annette Fawcett, divorced wife of Magazine Publisher Billy Fawcett, shortly before Liggett was severely beaten by unknown assailants.

Liggett was former director of publicity for the North Dakato non-partisan league, deputy commissioner of immigration for North Dakota in 1919 and a New York free lance writer.

The latest issue of his paper said he might be killed and demanded impeachment of Gov. Olson on graft charges.

STEEL OUTPUT AT STATE LINE MILL BOOSTED

Pittsburgh Crucible Co. to Absorb National Drawn Plant Production

WILL CREATE 50 JOBS

City Council Will Be Asked To Open Street and Clear Title to Property

Officials of the National Drawn Steel Co., in Michigan avenue, East End, today closed a deal with the Pittsburgh Crucible Steel Co., of Midland, Pa., for increased production of steel, creating jobs for 50 men.

The number of employes will be boosted from 10 to 60, Emil Glaser, superintendent, announced. The new business will include annealing, straightening and surface grinding, adding considerably to the output of the plant.

Machinery Installed

Crews having been working at the mill for several weeks in anticipation of the new production activities, clearing the plant, installing machinery and making repairs. Operations will be started at once.

Acting on a request by representatives of the National Drawn company, city council tonight is expected to enact legislation improving facilities at the mill.

One ordinance will call for the opening of a street near the end of Michigan avenue, in keeping with an agreement when the National Drawn plant was erected. A resolution also will authorize Service-Safety Director E. B. Laughlin to readvertise a tract of land there for sale in order to clear the title. The plant is already owned by the concern, which is expected to bid it in at a nominal fee.

Operations Resumed in 1933

Operations at the $2,000,000 plant were resumed about two years ago with a small force after the property was sold for $50,000 to Attorney Ben L. Bennett, representing the Potters Savings and Loan Co., which foreclosed a $150,000 mortgage.

The deal included three tracts of ground, the office building and all personal property, including machinery, tools and fixtures. Previously the mill was idle for about a year while in the hands of John W. Vodrey, receiver.

Completion of negotiations with the Pittsburgh Crucible Steel Co., means virtually a new industry for East Liverpool.

BRUNO'S ATTORNEYS FIND NEW EVIDENCE

To Attack Ladder Testimony in Appeal to Court

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 10—The fight to save Bruno Richard Hauptmann from the electric chair started anew today with what his lawyer said was new evidence on the kidnap ladder.

Hauptmann's plea for a United States Supreme Court review denied, his counsel planned another attack on "rail 16" of the ladder, one of the chief prosecution exhibits in the conviction of the Bronx carpenter as the kidnap-slayer of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr.

C. Lloyd Fisher, chief defense attorney, predicted "disclosures more or less sensational" in his attempt to disprove government testimony that "rail 16" of the ladder was made from a floorboard in Hauptmann's attic.

Since the highest court's one-word refusal to reopen the conviction, only two principal courses of action remained for the convicted slayer. They are:

1. Application to Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, Flemington trial judge, for a new trial on a possible claim of new evidence.

2. Application to the court of pardons for commutation of Hauptmann's death sentence to life imprisonment.

Justice Trenchard is to receive the trial record as soon as official notification of the Supreme Court's action is received from Washington. If he denies an appeal for a new trial, he must fix a new death date not less than four weeks nor more than eight weeks after he receives the record.

Hauptmann heard the conclusion of his Supreme Court appeal stoically in his death house cell. His wife telephoned a message to him, through a prison attendant, and promised to visit him today.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—The New York Evening Journal said today Gov. Harold Hoffman of New Jersey "has definitely committed himself to a vigorous fight to save" Bruno Hauptmann from the electric chair, but the story was immediately contradicted by the governor in a statement issued in Trenton, N. J.

NATIONS PLUNGE INTO SEA ISSUE

Take Up Question of Total Tonnages; Japan Asked For Detailed Report

[Copyright, 1935, By The Associated Press.]

LONDON, Dec. 10.—An authoritative source disclosed today that the international naval conference has decided to plunge immediately into the question of total tonnages of the world's greatest navies.

It was learned after the adjournment of the first session that the delegates, in conference at the Clarence house, requested that the Japanese make a detailed statement of their demands for total tonnages and present this statement at tomorrow's meeting of the other powers—the United States, Great Britain, France and Italy.

Although there was a discussion at the initial meeting of the possibilities of dividing the session into two classifications, the Japanese pressed for the immediate consideration of their demands for a decision concerning the total tonnages of navies maintained by the great nations.

The two classifications which have been considered were total tonnage and limitations according to sizes and types of ships and guns.

The Japanese insistance conformed with their announced attitude of seeking a decision on the total sizes of navies before the possibility of any decision concerning secondary limitation questions.

Since the total tonnage problem now becomes the vital question facing the conference, it is considered by informed persons that the success or failure of the efforts to achieve a new agreement will hinge upon the next few days' deliberations.

Strong opposition by Japan and France was expected to make abolition of the submarine impossible, but every indication was that a separate agreement outlawing unrestricted submarine warfare be one of the first concrete accomplishments of the conference.

Out of the formal opening of the conference yesterday and ensuing statements by the delegations, however, there emerged today no indications of progress toward meeting Japan's demands for parity or equality with the United States and Britain in total fleet tonnage — the vital question confronting the conference.

HERBERT'S PLEA SET FOR DEC. 21

Judge Carl Curtiss to Hear Arguments at Lisbon on New Trial Motion

Special To The Review.

LISBON, O., Dec. 10.—Arguments on a motion for a new trial for S. T. Herbert, former secretary of the Union Savings & Loan Co. of East Liverpool, convicted of embezzling $500 of the institution's funds, will be heard in the Columbiana county common pleas court here Saturday, Dec. 21, by Judge Carl H. Curtiss of Ravenna, it was announced today.

Herbert, who is at liberty under $5,000, pending action on the new trial plea, was named with G. Y. Travis, former president of the loan company, in 65 indictments, some separate, others joint. He was first placed on trial.

The new trial motion was filed three days after the jury's verdict by Defense Attorneys W. H. Vodrey and J. C. Hanley of East Liverpool.

Although no date has been set, it is expected the trial of Travis will be called early in January. Travis recently recovered from heart attacks suffered while attending the Herbert trial.

The penalty for conviction in the Herbert case is one of 10 years' imprisonment.

NEW SPLIT DEVELOPS IN DEMOCRAT RANKS

Sawyer's Exit Brings Other Davey Foes to Front

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 10. — Indications of a new split among Democrats developed today on the heels of retirement of the man once regarded as the most formidable obstacle in the path of the colorful Ohio governors drive for reelection.

Gov. Davey's friends openly remarked "we're sitting pretty now" as they discussed former Lieut. Gov. Charles Sawyer's withdrawal from the race for the gubernatorial nomination.

But in other capital quarters reliable sources called Lieut. Gov. Harold G. Mosier of Cleveland "the logical successor to Sawyer as the anti-Davey gubernatorial aspirant."

Republicans continued virtually united behind the only G. O. P. man who has announced his candidacy for nomination so far, Attorney General John W. Bricker.

The sources said Democrats have some men stronger than Mosier but none can be counted on to run.

COUNTY RELIEF OFFICIALS ASK OHIO PROGRAM

Commissioner Getz, Auditor Irwin Go to Columbus to Ascertain Situation

FUND DWINDLING HERE

Disbursements at City Hall For Food, Fuel, Medicine Near $1,500 Mark

Columbiana county officials went to Columbus today to confer with state officers regarding the relief situation which is becoming acute in most of the municipalities, villages and townships.

Austin I. Getz, of Salem, president of the commissioners, and Auditor John H. Irwin of East Palestine will present the county's problem to the state administration and ascertain what additional funds will be forthcoming to help carry the burden.

C. A. McLaughlin, of Wellsville, commissioners' clerk, said definite instructions regarding the disbursement of the respective shares of the state utility excise taxes will be sent to mayors and township trustees.

It was indicated at Lisbon that a county relief director probably will be appointed, but definite decision will await the return of the commissioners' chairman and Auditor Irwin from the state capital.

More Money Needed

The Associated Press said the immediate necessity of finding more money for 19 counties, including Columbiana, without funds to meet their relief needs faced the Ohio legislatures as it reconvened from another recess at Columbus today.

The senate was expected to complete enactment of a measure advancing $1,500,000 of utility excise tax funds to the distressed counties which did not vote Carey relief bonds.

This bill would advance the $1,500,000 from general funds to be repaid by counties' future shares of the utility excise tax. A measure passed last week allocated $750,000 of utility excise revenues but only $119,000 was found available.

A measure designed to make $750,000 available failed to meet the emergency last week. Only $120,000 was found available by the act.

The house passed the $1,500,000 bill last week but the senate sidetracked it in favor of the $750,000 measure.

Opposition to unrestricted voting of levies either for relief or other purposes, developed in hearings before the senate taxation committee. Mark Copeland of Cleveland, representing the Realty Recovery league, urged restricting emergency levies to one or two years.

The committee is considering bills of Rep. Sydney A. Heese (D., Cuyahoga) and Senator Keith Lawrence (D., Cuyahoga) providing for submission of levies and bond issues.

Credit Account Dwindles Here

With a $2,000 credit authorization being depleted at the rate of $300 a day, East Liverpool officials said they will be forced to draw upon the $1,405.25 allowance granted by the county before the end of the week in order to cope with appeals for food, fuel and medicine here.

Exclusive of today's disbursements, orders for $1,270.17 have been issued by Service-Safety Director E. B. Laughlin and Waterworks Clerk F. K. Robinson since the crdeit plan was approved by council four days ago.

With the total expected to reach the $1,500 mark by night, officials at city hall today reported issuance of 349 food orders costing $912.97, in addition to purchases of 78 coal orders for $331.50 and 30 prescriptions costing $25.70.

Relief clients took their places in line at the waterworks office at 9 a. m., seeking orders for sustenance which range from $1.51 to $4, depending upon the number of members of the indigent's family.

OLIVER C. VODREY IN PRIMARY RACE

Orchardist Here Throws Hat in Ring for Republican Commissioner Post

Oliver C. Vodrey, East Liverpool district orchardist, today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for one of the two Columbiana county commissioner places to be filled at the 1936 election.

Mr. Vodrey, who served one year of the unexpired term of the late Leroy Rinehart of East Liverpool, will file his declaration of candidacy for a ballot place at the presidential preference, state, district and county primary election to be held the second Tuesday in May.

A lifelong resident of East Liverpool, he was formerly associated with the Vodrey Pottery Co., served 13 years as a member of the board of education here and was also a trustee of Bethany college at Bethany, W. Va.

He retired from the county post in December, 1934, after the election of Frank M. Fisher, Democrat, of St. Clair township, who was named to serve the remaining two years of the late Mr. Rinehart's term. Mr. Vodrey, with his wife, son and daughter, lives in Park boulevard.

The four-year tenure of Commissioner Austin I. Getz of Salem, also a Democrat, and the two-year term of Mr. Fisher will expire next year. It is understood they will be candidates for re-election.

Mr. Vodrey's hat is the first tossed into the ring for the May primaries. The deadline for filing is 60 days prior to the balloting.

BUSINESS MEN TOLD TO 'QUIT QUIBBLING'

Industry and Berry Unable To Agree On Council

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10—George L. Berry, industry coordinator, today told business to "quit quibbling" over whether his proposed economic council is representative and to remember that the government is a partner "in this cooperative effort, and that it represents all the people."

Taking the aggressive against industry claims that groups called in conference here have almost unanimously opposed his council, Berry said in a statement:

"We are going forward in the work of setting up an industrial council, exactly as originally planned."

Berry said the issues of unemployment and a stable prosperity "can not be swept aside by political consideration or by unreasoning opposition to a course of action which is definite in scope with industry's problems in the light of solutions that they best guard the entire nation's welfare.

"Those who waste words quibbling over representation forget that the government is a partner in this cooperative effort and that it represents all the people," he said.

But the prediction of President Roosevelt's coordinator for industrial cooperation clashed with the views of some industrialists who are high in the national Association of Manufacturers and Chamber of Commerce of the United States and who oppose what they term government interference with business.

PEACE HOPES GROW BRIGHTER IN EAST AFRICA

Mussolini, Selassie Reported Ready to Listen to New Plan of Settlement

PROPOSAL WITHHELD

League Likely to Postpone Oil Sanctions; Baldwin Criticized in London

By The Associated Press.

Indications that France and Great Britian might succeed in their efforts to bring peace to Italy and Ethiopia were seen in Paris today with reports that both Premier Mussolini and Emperor Haile Selassie would listen to the new peace formula.

Still there was no authentic description of the terms of the peace plan, although it was generally considered likely that Italy would be offered a portion of Ethiopia while Ethiopia would be given a seaport.

Criticism of the way Prime Minister Baldwin and his government were handling the negotiations was voiced in London, where high commissioners of the British dominions were summoned to the foreign office for consultations.

New Conversations Start

The British seeking an understanding with the French, began a new series of conversations.

The armies of Italy and Ethiopia engaged in desultory fighting while the possibility cropped up of another gesture by the League of Nations toward peace as a concession to Mussolini.

Both at Geneva and Paris it was indicated the scheduled meetings of the league's sanctions committee of 18, called for Thursday to discuss an oil embargo against Italy, would be postponed.

The penalty of an oil embargo, urged repeatedly by Great Britain as the mainspring of the sanctions movement, has drawn most of the recent vituperative utterances from Rome and accompanying declarations that such a move would only prolong the war in East Africa.

Peace Efforts Stalemated

Peace efforts at Paris, however, given a filip by the conversations between Premier Pierre Laval and Sir Samuel Hoare, the British foreign secretary, appeared to be stalemated temporarily by modifications the British cabinet was reported to have asked in the settlement program they drew up.

The nature of the British objections was not known. They were reported to have accepted in the main the proposals advanced by Laval and Hoare, based on an exchange of territories between Italy and Ethiopia.

A delay in consideration of an oil embargo, it was pointed out, would give Mussolini more time to weigh the peace proposals advanced. The French cabinet met today to consider the question of peace in the light of the reported British reservations.

Meantime, at the war front, hard bayonet fighting was reported to Rome by Italy's northern forces. War correspondents advised their publications in the Italian capital that both Marshal Pietro Badoglio and Gen. Rudolfo Graziani, commanders on the northern and southern fronts, foresaw possibilities of more serious fighting soon.

Two Ethiopian Victories

The Ethiopian government announced Ras Seyoum's armies on the northern front won two engagements last week, scattering Italian encampments at Kalhabile Dec. 2 and at Managar the next day. The Italians, said the Addis Ababa government, left nine dead and many rifles.

The announcement added, "Fifty soldiers from the personal bodyguard of the traitor, Haile Selassie Gugsa, joined the Ethiopian side Dec. 8." Gugsa is the Italian-appointed governor of Tigre province who went over to the Blackshirts weeks ago incident to the original Italian advance.

From Rome came word that Premier Mussolini persisted in his efforts to take by warfare what other powers were debating whether to concede him by peace negotiations —a strip of Ethiopia. Informed Italian sources said Gen. Graziani had been encouraged by promotion from the rank of corps commander to "army commander."

Authoritative sources said Il Duce was silently checking the advances of his northern and southern armies against the approach of spring rains and the possibility of further sanctions against him.

POLICE CAPTURE INDIANA BANDITS

State Patrolmen Surprise Wounded Pair Sought as Murder Suspects

By The Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 10.—Donald Joseph and Paul Pierce, the two "hair tonic" bandits sought for questioning in the murder of an Anderson, Ind., policeman Nov. 24 and who shot their way out of a police trap here Saturday, were captured today by Indiana state police.

The pair, both wounded through the body, were found asleep in a farmhouse near Milroy, 50 miles southeast of Indianapolis, and surrendered without a fight.

They were brought to state police headquarters in the capitol building and given emergency treatment by Dr. Charles R. Bord.

Pierce was shot through the body, just above the heart and Joseph through the side.

They were wounded Saturday in a gun battle in Indianapolis with Detectives Orville Quinette and Russell Chatham when the two detectives walked in on them in an uptown apartment.

Quinette was seriously wounded and is in city hospital. Chatham was shot in the foot.

Seized with them were Sylvia Headley, who served a sentence with the two wounded suspects in the state prison at Michigan City.

Acting on an underworld tip state police sergeants Ernest Richardson and Leo Moore led a party of nine state police to the Headley farm early today.

Pierce drew a pistol when police knocked on the door and demanded their surrender, but seeing the house was surrounded he held up his hands and walked out.

They have been identified by Quinette and Chatham as their attackers and by an Anderson grocer as the man who robbed him.

UTILITIES OFFER AID TO HASTEN DECISION

Offer to Reduce Number of Suits Filed by Companies

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Organized utility holding companies today offered to cooperate with the government in reducing the multiplicity of suits under the holding company act.

Philip H. Gadsden, chairman of the committee of public utility executives, said in a statement:

"If the attorney general and the SEC are anxious to avoid the prosecution of the multiplicity of suits based upon the public utility act of 1935, they can rely on the full cooperation of the utilities."

The offer was the first break in what has been separate efforts of the government and the utilities in the holding company fight.

"We recognize that it is important," Gadsden said, "not only to the electric light, power and gas industry, but in the interest of general business recovery the constitutionality of the act be passed upon as soon as possible by the Supreme Court of the United States."

The proprietor called Brooke county officers who placed him under arrest.

MILLS SOUNDS APPEAL FOR CURB ON SPENDING

Columbus Address Assails Continued Government Borrowing

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 10.—Ogden L. Mills former secretary of the treasury, sounded an appeal last night for economy to curb what he called a "reckless and profligate national administration."

Mills, addressing the Columbus chamber of commerce, asked for cooperation from industrialists and business leaders present to join in the "fight to restore sound financial conditions x x x by compelling this reckless and profligate administration to put our financial house in order."

The former member of the Hoover cabinet assailed continuous government borrowing and "gold profits" realized by the government when the dollar was devalued. He said the "fantastic figure" of $3,000,000,000 of bank reserves caused by gold devaluation and gold imports was five times the excess he charged responsible for the "fatal credit inflation" leading to the 1929 collapse.

He accused administration supporters of "malicious, deliberate misrepresentation" in asserting opponents of excessive spending would "permit people to starve in order to balance the budget."

Anyone proclaiming against excess government spending, he said, "is at once branded as a selfish defender of property rights' and arch foe of human rights."

OHIO DENIES SERIOUS SALES TAX CHISELING

Border City Violations Only Minor, State Reports

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 10—Hearings in numerous border and other cities produced a report today that chiseling in collection of the sales tax is rampant, but the chief of the sales tax division declared it was confined to "petty thieving."

R. P. Barthalow asserted "we are getting 99½ percent collections in eight counties we recently surveyed, and that's a lot more than we ever expected."

"There is no large degree of chiseling," he said as a special senate committee investigating administration of the sales tax since last September reported:

1—The percentage of chiseling vendors had increased from 10.3 percent in July to 25.7 percent in November.

2—There are 14 different methods of chiseling.

3—Defects in the present law are responsible.

To remedy defects, the committee recommended:

1—Establishment of more agencies selling stamps.

2—Making administrative features of the law more specific.

3—Making a contractor a vendor in status.

4—Requiring purchasers of automobiles outside the state to pay a use tax.

5—Giving the tax commission exclusive authority to purchase sales tax stamps. The state purchasing agent now has this authority.

6—Printing of merchandise cards by the commission instead of the vendors.

7—Employing additional "efficient and courtous auditors and inspectors."

GRANGE WILL DISCUSS STATE MILK CONTROL

Davey Says Bill Would Help Return of Farm Prosperity

LIMA, O., Dec. 10.—Ohio Grange members anticipated discussion of milk producers' problems as they assembled today for first business sessions of their annual convention.

Assertions by Gov. Davey that the milk control bill now pending in the legislature "would increase prices to 10,000 farmers and help return agricultural prosperity," brought cheers from the convention last night.

Davey said "The legislature might as well go home, we are getting no cooperation on the milk bill." Earlier he discussed the relief crisis, asserting blame for the present situation was due to the legislature, federal relief authorities and the voters of several counties.

Tonight the convention is scheduled to hear Attorney General John Bricker, candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. The governor asserted "blind partisanship" was partly responsible for failure of the legislature to act on his relief bill. "In trying to hurt me politically," he said, "the Republican membership has been hurting Ohio."

HANCOCK COUNTY WILL PAY TEACHERS DEC. 20

Schools Will Observe Two-Week Vacation Over Christmas

NEW CUMBERLAND, W. Va., Dec. 10.—Teachers and janitors in the Hancock county schools will receive their Christmas pay Friday, Dec. 20, when schools will close for a two-week vacation, the county board of education determined at a meeting here Monday night.

The board confirmed the appointment of Miss Jane McCullough of Pittsburgh, Oberlin college graduate, as music teacher of the Weirton junior and senior high school, succeeding Miss Eleanor Anderson, who resigned to accept a teaching position at Dresden, O.

A delegation from the Kings Creek section asked extension of the school bus route to the foot of the hill on the Tarr road. Children attending the Weirton school are now required to walk to the top of the hill. No action was taken.

A group of Negro parents requested that the proposed WPA school for Negro children be constructed in Clico Hill, Weirton, in event the application for funds is approved by the government. The board took the request under advisement.

STOCK DECLINE LED BY SILVERS

Bright Earnings Statements Keep Bulls Optimistic In Irregular Mart

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Further weakness of silver mining issues brought some unsettlement in today's stock market.

At the same time, gold mining equities and scattered specialties were rather firm. Homestake added another 20 points to its sharp upturn of yesterday and McIntyre and Dome improved. Baldwin Locomotive, common and preferred, came into demand. Case, Paramount, Sears Roebuck, National Distillers and National Biscuit were moderately higher.

U. S. Smelting dropped 7 points before receiving support, and International Nickel, Anaconda, Cerro de Pasco, American Smelting and Howe Sound were off 1 to 2. The rails and utilities eased along with the steels. General Motors and Chrysler yielded about 1 each. Call money renewed at ¾ of 1 percent.

The continuance of bright earnings statements and favorable dividends helped to buoy the spirits of bullish forces.

Holders of bank securities were cheered by the announcement of the Manuacturers Trust Co. of New York that a special dividend had been voted by the directors. President Fibson said that the bank's net earnings for the year would approximate $4 a share. General improvement in banking conditions was believed to reflect the progress of industrial recovery.

A substantial upturn in freight carloadings for the past week was indicated by early figures published by some of the important roads. Increases over the previous week were shown by Baltimore & Ohio, St. Paul, Chicago & Northwestern and Santa Fe.

At the beginning of foreign exchange dealings the French franc was up .00¼ of a cent at 6.59⅝ cents and sterling was ¼ of a cent firmer at $4.93¼.

Klondyke Church Interior Will Be Painted

Budget pledges for the ensuing year at Boyce Methodist Episcopal church total $2,000 to date, Financial Secretary Carl Mansfield told official board members at a meeting in the Klondyke edifice. Seven full-tithe pledges have also been added to the amount.

Treasurer George McGaffic announced there was a balance of $89.88, with all bills paid and it was voted to paint the church interior. The painting committee, composed of W. L. Mautz, V. R. Neiser and Mrs. Mae Duffy was authorized to advertise for bids.

The trustees were advised to sign a new 10-year contract for church insurance. The board also pledged $25 toward the salary of Miss Marion Stanley, week-day religious instructor in the schools. Carl Mansfield was added to the membership committee.

A meeting of the Sunday school board will be held Friday night in the church instead of tonight, it was announced.

MIDLAND HIGH PLANS COMEDY ON THURSDAY

Two Organizations Seek Funds to Provide Glasses for Needy

Midland, Pa., Dec. 10—A three act comedy, "Skidding", will be presented in the Lincoln High School auditorium here Thursday at 8:15 by the Hi-Y and Hi-Tri organizations to raise funds to purchase glasses for needy students.

Directed by Miss Kathryn Bream, of the high school faculty, the play provides wit, humor, politics and near tragedy as well as comedy.

The locale is a small Idaho town, home of Judge Hardy and wife, roles essayed by Lester Moore and Betty Lou Miller. Aunt Molly, portrayed by Lois Hineman, is a school teacher of spinster age who still retains a keen wit. George Hall plays the character of Andy, 16-year-old son of the Hardys with adolescent love affairs.

Grandpa Hardy in the person of Carl Graham, endears himself to his audience with his quaint manner of speaking and his poor memory. Estelle and Myra, typical young married daughters of the Hardy family, are roles of Betty Wege and Betty Higham. Other characters include Marion Hardy, played by Erma Lockwood; Wayne Trenton, by Vincent Ogren and Mr. Stubbins, hard-boiled politician, by art Llewelyn.

Distance

Chinese may wonder why Ethiopians are more saving from the "civilizing" influence of a foreign invader than they are. But if they are good philosophers, Chinese will understand why the League of Nations isn't nearly so interested in punishing Japan as it is interested in punishing Italy.

Great Britain, the United States and Russia may growl at Japan occasionally, but by their own confession they hope to avoid the necessity of biting. A Chinese philosopher should be able to understand that there are some things which can be done and some things which can't be done and that it is well not to admit that any of the latter exist.

The League of Nations could not stop Japan's absorption of Manchuria. It cannot stop the creation of an autonomous state in north China—an autonomous state loyal to Japan. Great Britain and the United States cannot prevent Japan from squeezing them out of Asiatic markets. They can threaten, they even could fight, but eventually Japanese merchants will stand in the places of occidental tradesmen.

Russia, whose vast territory is threatened at one corner by Japan, can growl, but even its uncounted millions of population cannot prevail against the Japanese in the sphere of influence they are creating for themselves in Asia. For better or worse, the east and the west have not been brought together yet. Distance has made Japan stand beyond the reach of Europe, whose authority in Asia is wholly presumptive. If Italy were in Asia and if Japan were not there to challenge it, the Italian invasion of Ethiopia very likely would be challenged no more effectively than the western world has been able to challenge Japan's invasion of China.

If Votes Fail

Pierre Laval's gallant political struggle to remain premier of France is bringing him more success than skeptics believed it could. He has won three victories since parliament convened the middle of last month, and apparently is gaining strength.

Premier Laval is fighting to save the republic from anarchists on one side and fascists on the other. Neither is devoted to the principle that parliamentary government must be preserved. Strangely, Premier Laval, who is devoted to that principle, is obliged to work in its behalf by suspending some of the privileges of parliamentary government.

His seeming success in the last three weeks indicates that France is not ready yet to abandon votes in favor of decrees. The French tradition of democracy is strong. Despite the communists and fascists, there is a vast horde of Frenchmen who still are proud of their government. They are unwilling to abandon it because it hasn't worked perfectly. In communism they see the harsh discipline of Russia. In fascism they see the mailed hand that marshals the masses in Nazi Germany.

If votes fail in France, decrees will take their place. The great majority of French citizens will be put at the mercy of rival factions on the right and left. In France, as in every country, zealots are in a minority. They cannot prevail until the slow-moving, slow-thinking majority is steered into an impasse. That is what Premier Laval is trying to prevent during these hectic days in Paris—an impasse which will make decrees seem preferable to votes.

Take It Easy

It is obvious that the smart fellows of new Russia are driving at something. Instead of giving an impression of stern discipline, they are encouraging Russians to be happy. The smiling face is being used as the advertising symbol of communism. There are more flies to be caught with sugar than with vinegar.

Even grim Josef Stalin, the man of steel, is lending himself to the happiness ballyhoo. Propagandists are catching him in amiable moods and poses. His comrades are learning to think of him as an amiable man upon whom destiny has thrust a mighty burden. Yet, he has time to smile. Heaven forbid, but he is said to have taken up baby kissing, one of the oldest tricks of capitalist politicians.

No one needs to be told that communism will gain popularity hugely by forsaking some of the harsher edges of discipline which have frightened onlookers. But Josef Stalin and other officials of the Soviet Union should understand what they are getting into before it is too late.

In the United States, public officials never miss a chance to turn on their personality. The purpose is to prove that their hearts are open and that it is a real pleasure for them to be serving the people. On the whole, the politicians have been successful. The public has no false respect for them.

In fact, politicians have been so chummy that they have forfeited the privilege of living their own lives. The public tells them what to say, what to wear, what to eat and what to drink. There's more comradeship in it than there is in communism. Take it easy, Joe, because you probably won't like it.

In Ten Years

Definite negotiations for establishment of regular airplane service across the Atlantic ocean between the United States and various points in Europe show promise of fruition within 10 years after the sensational flight of Col. Lindbergh from New York to Paris. It is a remarkable accomplishment which is almost within reach.

In 10 more years, regular flights eastward and westward from the United States across the two great oceans probably will be an unexciting detail of the world's ordinary flying routine. Only a few years ago, men dreamed of dependable transportation by air between the east and west coast of the United States. Today, the commercial transport droning swiftly through the air, bringing New York and San Francisco within a few hours of each other attracts scarcely more attention than the thundering passage of a train.

The success of the China Clipper's first regular flight from San Francisco to the Philippines in the last few days has set men to dreaming again of the possibilities of aviation. Despite progress almost unbelievably rapid, the world is impatient to realize the full potentialities of flight. Literally, there is nothing which they consider impossible. Already, the record contains so many performances believed impossible only a short time ago that there is good reason to be cautious in predicting what the men who fly cannot do. Aviation has entered a stage in which limitations are determined not by what men are willing to try to do but what it is believed they will be able to do methodically and safely. The swift progress of aviation is attested by the results of their reckless adventure.

Still A Young Nation

If you haven't received your copy of the British "Who's Who" yet, it's available. In it you will find Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe of Dionne quintuplet fame, William Faulkner, Adolf Hitler, King George V, Benito Mussolini, Haile Selassie and many other excellent and famous persons. Also, you will find the names of many persons of whom almost nothing is know in the United States.

There are, for instance: Prof. Rowby Woof, Vice Admiral the Hon. Sir Reginald Aylmer Ranfurly Plunkett-Ernle-Erle-Drax, William Teulon Swan Stallybrass, Mrs. Olympia Loetitia Honeyball, Edward Shrapnel Shrapnell-Smith, Major General William Louis Oberkirch Twiss and Canon William John Telia Phythian Pythian-Adams.

That is, as they say on the radio, only the beginning. An ordinary run-of-mine American who thinks one name and an initial are more than enough flinches a bit at the realization that the United States still is a young nation and that it hasn't had time enough yet to floss up its nemenclature. In the course of time, though, it will be nothing at all to have a Mr. Roosevelt-Before-Chicago Elmer Thomas William Smith-Jones Zilch right in the room.

Sweet Music

It's no more than proper that while work relief is being made available musicians should come in for a share of it. But the same policy which has helped to make musical positions scarce doesn't seem to have a proper place in work relief.

That's the policy of trying to create demand by creating scarcity. Musicians, generally, have reasoned that by making their efforts expensive and thereby making music rare they could make music profitable. They have dug their own graves, but they don't seem to be disturbed.

In New York City, where WPA has been making relief available to musicians, their local union has taken a stand against employment conditions under relief administration. The union has demanded prevailing wages for musicians who blow, scrape and beat instruments for federal dollars. Obviously, the motive is to prevent competition with privately employed musicians—to create scarcity of music.

This is, of course, a problem for musicians to settle. Supposedly, they know what is best for them, though their present plight with regard to the theater, for instance, reflects no credit on their wisdom and foresight. But if musicians were to ponder over the idea that the best way to keep the public interested in "live" music is to give the public an opportunity to hear more of it, they might conclude that they have been going at their fight for survival holding the spear by the wrong end. Perhaps they have been taking AAA too seriously.

Some Kent Incidents

Franklin township, Portage county, in which the city of Kent is located, was sold in 1798 for $2,000. There being 16,000 acres in the township, that was at a price of 12½ cents an acre. The purchaser was Aaron Olmstead of Connecticut, who sent a company of surveyors to the township. They built a hut and one of the first families to live there, named Haymaker, resided in the hut.

A party of Indians visited them and one squaw left her papoose tied on a plank outside the hut. A wild hog came along and seized the infant. Startled by the cries of the infant, the mother went in pursuit but she had to fight the animal before she rescued her baby.

A son, Frederick Haymaker, became secretary for Aaron Burr, and he claimed he knew all about that gentleman's grandiose plans. But he died in 1851 carrying his secrets to the grave.

New Deal's Utility War Costly To Nation

Truce 10 Months Ago Could Have Benefited U. S. By 3½ Billions

By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1935, by The Review)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Peace between the utilities and the Roosevelt administration could have been made 10 months ago and the nation could have benefited by more employment and by industrial activity amounting to $3,500,000,000. But the President rejected the plan and insisted on the "death sentence" for holding companies, and today the litigation resulting from the law passed by congress will cost more than $1,000,000 in lawyers' fees alone incident to nearly 100 law suits.

Information as to what occurred in the conferences between Mr. Roosevelt and utility company executives is just leaking out as the nation begins to wonder whether the costly controversy could have been averted and whether there was any better plan than that which the President followed.

Plan Accepted By 60 Percent

It is pertinent to examine the plan which was submitted to Mr. Roosevelt but has hitherto never been made public. For in the controversy over the new deal, the questions are often asked, "What would you have done, or what would you do now? Why wasn't constructive criticism offered at the time?"

The plan given to Mr. Roosevelt was by no means the unanimous expression of the utility men, but it was accepted informally by more than 60 per cent of the industry and the chances are that the dissenters would have been brought into line had the administration shown evidence of a willingness to adopt the proposals. These provided:

First, the power industry would accept the administrations theory about lower electric light rates, and the utility companies would agree to file objective rates subject to the approval of the federal power commission.

Second, if satisfactory rates were established in a given territory, the federal government would declare that there was no necessity for federal loans to municipalities therein.

Third, the federal government would continue its development of hydro-electric projects but would not duplicate transmission lines or aid in the duplication of municipal distribution facilities.

Fourth, the utilities would declare in favor of the passage of a federal law permitting reasonable regulation of holding companies; namely, a law that would cure all the past evils, such as pyramided financing and inter-service charges, etc.

Fifth, the utilities would agree on a program of rural electrification.

Authorship Never Revealed

Sixth, a national appliance commission would be appointed, which, in view of low objective rates, would agree on the manufacturing of appliances on a wholesale plan to electrify America. Arrangements would be made for something better than the electric farm and home authority in respect to long term paper that could be discounted at the banks.

Mr. Roosevelt was told that, if this plan could be put into effect, there would consequently be an increase in the development of properties through better capital markets, and the amount of business possible would run well over $3,500,000,000.

The authorship of the plan has never been revealed, but it is believed here that it was the work of Wendell L. Wilkie, president of the Commonwealth & Southern Corp. One of the most progressive of the utility men and one in which it is believed Mr. Roosevelt has had considerable confidence. Mr. Wilkie has been a life-long Democrat; an executive able to understand both sides of the utility controversy, and a man whose visits to the federal power commission last January were welcomed by the officials there because he seemed to be sincerely trying to work out a compromise.

Just why Mr. Roosevelt rejected the project has never been disclosed. Certain it is that many of his advisers were keenly enthusiastic about it. Others possibly in his official family who were hopeful of a government ownership scheme or who believed that there was political gain for Mr. Roosevelt in constant agitation of the fight against the utilities may have dissuaded the President.

Advocates Revival of Plan

Anyway, the conferences came to naught and the battle went on into the summer with the final adoption of a law that is unquestionably unconstitutional but a decision on which probably will not be made by the Supreme Court for another year or so, during which time the development of the heavy goods industries, so dependent on utility development, will be retarded.

All the fact about those January conferences at the White House ought to be made known. The utility men refuse to do so because they say the law now has been passed and the battle lines have been drawn. The unemployed—the innocent victims of the political war—will not be benefited by such a course. Even if the plan was rejected last January, it could be revived this January and congress could modify the existing law to make it valid. This would be the biggest single achievement toward economic recovery that could be made in the near future and probably would absorb more men than the works progress administration, which has been such a drain on the public treasury.

DAILY HOROSCOPE

By

GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, Dec. 11

A day memorable for much gratification as well as progress is read from the prevailing lunar and planetary influences. There is a sign of very difinite settling of the affairs, with increased possessions through industry, hard work and steadiness. These may attract the good will of elders, who may confer some lasting rewards. This may involve a change or travel, but all for benefit and for the stabilization of the affairs. In domestic, social and affectional matters there is much activity as well as happiness to be expected.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a satisfying and progressive year with many rewards for industry, fidelity and application to the affairs of an elderly person or institution. Property should increase and the fortunes become stabilized. In private associations there is much happiness and gratification in store. There may be a slight change or a journey of benefit.

A child born on this day may be profound and studious, with a love of hard work and exploration into the unknown. Its nature will be amiable and lovable.

Notable nativity: Guy Empey, author.

Lives of great men also remind us that planks are things a candidate stands on before election and sits down on afterwards. —Winona (Minn.) Republican-Herald.

BEHIND THE NEWS

By

PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Brokers are handing around among themselves, for a laugh, New York curb market listing bulletin No. 174. It is a prize antique of the pre-depression era.

The current mirthful significance lies in the mention therein of the name of Franklin D. Roosevelt as a director of the Consolidated Automatic Merchandising Corp. The bulletin is an application for listing the stock of that corporation. It is dated Aug. 8, 1928.

Four pages of hopes for profits are climaxed on page five of the bulletin by a detailed citation of expected earnings each year for 10 years. For instance, the bulletin shows that, this year, the company expected to earn $2,017,560 from penny weighing machines, $850,000 from penny gum sales; $608,702 from postage stamp machines, and $15,300,000 from general machine merchandising (candies, gum, etc.).

Any investor could pencil the total up to a grand $18,776,262, which is a lot of pennies and nickels.

* * *

Fun

What rolls the hard-hearted brokers on the floor is to read this accounting of unhatched pennies in the light of the subsequent fate of the corporation. The profits were not to be. Some pennies must have stuck in the machines.

On July 3, 1934, the southern district court in New York approved petitions filed by the offering broker, F. J. Lismon & Co., and the General Vending Corp. (an almost wholly owned subsidiary) for relief under section 77B of the bankruptcy act. Twenty days later the court entered a decree continuing each corporation in possession of its respective assets. (Moody's Industrial Manual, 1935 edition).

This subject is supposed to have been vaguely mentioned by someone during the last campaign. At that time it developed that Director Roosevelt had about as much to do with it as the average corporate director—just a little more than nothing.

Credit

The large brick hurled by the bankers' advisory council at the federal reserve board has whistled past all official ears here without notice. Not an official head has been raised in acknowledgement. Not an official word spoken.

Unofficially, the highest here seem to have an assured outlook on the credit situation. If they had desired to speak, they would have said something like this:

Federal reserve policy has been to encourage excess reserves in the belief that this would eventually bring pressure on the frozen capital market and break up the ice. First symptoms of thaw have now been noticed. Probably the FRP had nothing to do with it, but, at any rate, the test of the policy pressure is just now about to be made.

* * *

If the highest further disclosed their minds on this most important issue (it involved inflationary or deflationary pressure from Washington), they would say:

It is true that the FRB open market committee bought government bonds in the open market to offset a deflationary movement which now has ceased. Instead of gold going out, it is now coming into the country.

Likewise, it is now true that the treasury refinancing program is completed. There is no serious practical reason why the treasury would object to a moderate selling policy.

But, at the same time, the new dealers believe the advisory committee brick was propelled more by a desire for better interest than by any other motive power.

The sum total of all these reactions to the advisory council demand, therefore, seems to amount to one simple word: "No."

The best tea-table story of the budding social season is the one about a Washington society leader and a governmental commission.

It seems that this commission is one of those obscure overworked governmental authorities which meet once a year, or thereabouts. Its August meeting for this year was held here a few weeks ago. The commissioners, including some representatives from a foreign land, were invited by the society lady to tea.

The big day the commissioners saw them properly arrayed in striped pants and authoritive stiff collars. They made a very dignified formal appearance in the salon of their official hostess, but were somewhat disconcerted to find her missing.

Their feet began to ache after half an hour of shifting their weight from one to the other. Then the absent lady blew in through the door on a wintry blast. Explanations were not necessary, as the lady was attired in horseback riding raiment. The secretary took the rap as they say in Tammany social circles, explaining that she had neglected to remind her mistress of the engagement.

The lady herself made a gracious apology and said she would join the party as soon as she could dress. She must have been delayed at this, also. The commissioners, after waiting until their feet were fairly screaming, decided unanimously that they had other engagements. They left to rest up for another next year.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 — A new congressional investigation of chain stores is in the making, quietly but with good people behind it. New Yorkers in a position to know say that several congressmen are much concerned about reports that certain chains are exploiting their employes by working many of them regularly for 80 hours and more a week without even any compensation for overtime. If these charges are substantiated by the projected inquiry the chains will be in a bad spot. They are none too popular in legislative circles as it is.

One national chain, which occupies a position in the retail field between the 5 and 10's and the full-fledged department stores, will be a particular target. This store is said to push its employes so hard that they have inadequate time for rest and practically none at all for recreation.

The general manager of the chain in question has had the matter brought to his attention. His attitude is that he does not approve of overworking clerks and does not believe that many of his store managers pursue this practice, but so far he has not indicated that he intends to check his comfortable beliefs. Keen observers comment that this sort of thing is hot grist for those who insist that business must be more strictly regulated.

* * *

Spite

The banks grabbed off the treasury's latest offering without so much as a peep of protest, but bitter-end opponents of the new deal among them are still trying to figure out some way short of Orval Adams' impractical boycott suggestion to impress on the administration their profound disapproval of the mounting federal debt. One suggestion, which has been seriously discussed in right wing financial circles, would amount to a partial boycott. The idea would be for the banks to demand payment of the short-term government securities they hold at maturity instead of accepting refunding offers.

The effect of this would be to drive the treasury into the open market for funds. This would make marketing more difficult and expensive and would undoubtedly compel the payment of a higher interest rate. It also would focus public attention on the federal debt much more sharply than hitherto and would probably arouse apprehension about the fundamental soundness of federal credit.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Fifth avenue is watching, with properly arched brows, the battle of the five and tens. What was until a few weeks ago the biggest establishment now has a cater-corner rival, a rival as architecturally ponderous as Tiffany's to the southward.

The new spire rears majestically on the site of the avenue's most celebrated splotch of shabbiness, the Wendell residence with its flapping shutters. It was the gloomy house where the eccentric and recluse sisters provided the million dollar play-ground for a toothless dog.

The grandest of the five and tens is a miracle of direct lighting and the sidewalk windows running along two sides provide space for the town's biggest display of the window dresser's art. The sales girls might have been selections for a Ziegfeld ensemble.

Sightseeing wagons are now pointing it out along with the public library, the Empire State building and famed departmental ateliers. And it has already gained place in the postcard series for tourists. Selfridge, the London merchant prince, saw it and gasped.

The late Ben Throop, rich husband of the Follies beauty Ruby De Remer, was owner of a most unusual trained dog. It was of the Belgian police species and veteran of the great war. The dog met guests at the Throop home with friendly wagging, but trying to leave was something else. No one could depart without being escorted to the door by a member of the family or a servant. The prize trick was uncanny. The dog would be brought in after women guests had deposited a slipper each in center of the floor. Without slightest hesitation the animal would carry the right slipper and drop it beside the proper foot.

Deac Aylesworth, the radio chieftain, probably faces more executive duties than any official in town. Aside from multifarious radio chores, he has a guiding hand on movie and vaudeville enterprises, sees scores daily and makes hundreds of rapid fire decisions, yet no one has seen him ruffled. This glacial quality is especially stressed at board meetings, where often he makes but a single comment but it is a word with the bark on it. He has a deaf ear for the internecine bickerings that afflict high powered outfits. He listens but decides for himself.

A Pittsburgh music lover, dropping in today, recalled the inside of Victor Herbert's resignation as conductor of the Pittsburgh symphony orchestra. He was drinking beer, after an enervating rehearsal, with his muscians in the Schenley hotel when he was approached by one of the nabobs backing the orchestra. The nabob hinted that fraternizing with ordinary musicians was not in keeping with the social position the job entailed Herbert's Irishry came to a quick boil. "I'd rather be seen with them than you!" he shouted, and resigned on the spot. He came back to New York and worked on the composition that won him immortality.

H. T. Webster and several others are wondering if Somerset Maugham was on the level in announcing he was in this country to spend money and not to make it. Their bewilderment followed several rubbers of bridge with him. Incidentally Maugham revealed he had not visited the South Sea Islands for 20 years but there is a hotel at Pago Pago called "The Sadie" with a room the management points out as having been occupied by Maugham when there. It is one of the sights of the town.

Alas, One Rich Man, Only

ONLY ONE solitary American citizen had a net income above five million dollars last year, and they were 59-cent dollars. The man did not realize it, perhaps, but he will realize it later as inflation, which is now a fact, becomes known to all.

Who the last, lonesome, remote unfriended, melancholy five-million-dollar-a-year man is, may not be told. The law forbids publishing income tax names, but the government tells you there is one and only one.

That "last rose" of depression's summer must look around him, sad-eyed, mourning over his old companions, withered and strewn.

Gasoline Is King

WHAT IS important today may be nothing tomorrow; what was nothing yesterday may become all important now. Once man was helpless, without his horse, camel, ox, yak, ass, mule, reindeer, dog sled, or tame elephant.

Now, in civilization they mean little, while Lloyd George tells you "oil is the decisive factor in the Abyssinian campaign." Of all the great powers whose attitude is being canvassed, that of King Gasoline is most important. Without oil, Mussolini cannot win his war; with oil, victory is certain.

Seven hundred years ago Marco Polo, telling about oil from the ground in what are now the Baku oil fields, remarked that such oil was important, because it cured camels of the mange.

Little did he dream that the same oil, changed to exploding gasoline, would take the place of camels in desert transportation, and carry fighting men through the air, to drop destruction on camels and men below.

Cardinal Hayes Speaks

CARDINAL HAYES of New York, in a powerful address denouncing birth control, "voiced measured, deliberate and emphatic condemnation of those that had the effrontery" to misrepresent the Catholic position on that question, by suggesting that women, on relief, should be allowed to practice birth control to keep down population.

Resenting the suggestion that the poor should temporarily give up having children, Cardinal Hayes offered this wise suggestion:

"The true lover of the poor, today, and the true social scientist, knows that the right approach to the whole problem is not to keep people from having children, but is so to reorder our economic and social structure as to make it possible for people to have children and to rear them in keeping with their needs."

All The Ships She Wants

JAPAN at the naval conference will consider nothing less than a battle fleet as big as any the United States may build; no 5-5-3 ratio.

NO AMERICAN should object to that, if Japan can afford it. It is not the size of a fleet that counts; unfortunate Spanish grandees in charge of the great armada could testify to that, after they met Elizabeth's small fleet and big seacaptains.

Also there is the fact that, if real war started, above the clouds and under the water, every fighting nation would hide its battleship targets out of airplane sight, in safe harbors; many battleships, or few, would make no difference.

Gen Mitchell, head of our air force in the big war, described a plane now ready for flight, that can go from New York to Alaska and back, without stopping for fuel anywhere.

Give Japan a "happy landing" in Alaska, and planes, able to go to New York and back, dipping noisy souvenirs on Chicago, Cleveland, St. Louis, then stopping—what difference would it make how many floating battleship targets Japan might own? Fighting airships and submarines, nothing else counts.

The Scientific "Eye"

THE SCIENTIFIC news, gruesome, but important, tells you that the eyes of the dead can supply transparent tissue from the cornea useful in curing blindness in the living. Tissue from dead eyes has been successfully transplanted to living eyes and there is hope of thus curing certain types of blindness.

Milton's sight might have been given back to him, and Homer's although restoration of sight with increased interest in mundane affairs might have reduced imaginative power in Paradise Lost and the Iliad.

An "eye," more important to men than any living eye; an eye that may look out into space for man's enlightenment during thousands of years—namely, an astronomical lens, 16 feet in diameter—will soon be traveling from the Corning Glass works in New York west to the California Institute of Technology.

There, four years will be devoted to grinding and polishing the 40,000-pound piece of glass, destined to take the sight of man twelve hundred million light years into space.

To know how many miles that amounts to, multiply twelve hundred millions by six trillions, or 1,200,000,000 by 6,000,000,000,000.

Compared with that, nothing else is important. Man's mind cannot conceive, even, if one billion, although his cupidity eagerly seizes upon it, and here six thousand millions are multiplied by a billion and two hundred millions.

'Tired Feeling' Attributed to Colitis Malady

Doctor Blames Functional Disorders in Cases of Auto-Intoxication

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

MANY PERSONS complain all the time of a "tired feeling," or "lack of pep". While there are other causes, of course, many such cases can be traced to intestinal disorders. Failure of elimination may result in fermentation or putrefaction of the intestinal contents.

The body has many functions. If on function is disturbed or imperfectly performed, other functions may be interrupted. Unless every organ operates normally the health is sure to suffer.

One of the many important functions of the body is to rid itself of all waste materials. This is accomplished in several ways. Certain waste substances are passed off in the expired air from the lungs, in the form of carbon dioxide. Other substances are excreted through the sweat glands of the skin. The kidney carries away waste substances in the form of urine.

Greatest Service

The intestinal tract renders the greatest service in eliminating waste. The valuable and nutritive elements of the food are absorbed by the intestinal walls and the remainder is passed off as waste material. Until it is eliminated, the large intestine, the colon, stores this material as well as large numbers of bacteria.

No matter what its cause may be, if there is a failure in the mechanism of the colon, there is retention of the food residue. With the excessive putrefaction and fermentation, toxins or poisonous substances are developed and absorbed into the circulation. When this happens we are dealing with what is popularly called "auto-intoxication", or "self-poisoning."

Anyone who leads a sedentary life or who suffers from constipation is very apt to be a victim of auto-intoxication. If the trouble is neglected, the intestinal tract may become irritated. There may even be severe inflammation of the colon, a condition known as "colitis."

Headache, restlessness, undue fatigue, irritability, heartburn, nausea, indigestion and loss of appetite are just a few of the many symptoms caused by auto-intoxication. Sometimes the sufferer is so worried he avoids consulting his physician for fear the doctor may decide he is the victim of some incurable disease.

In most instances the true nature of the disorder is quickly recognized by the physician and relief is given. In the more complicated cases it may be necessary to resort to x-ray studies and certain laboratory tests.

Do not be misled by the common belief that a daily evacuation prevents auto-intoxication. Unless there is complete elimination, poisonous substances form in the stagnant food remnants and excessive putrefaction and fermentation follow. It may be necessary to resort to special treatment to correct the condition and rid the colon of its poisons. The physician is the one to decide the proper treatment for the particular case.

LAWYERS TO ASK LIFE TERMS FOR STATE'S JUDGES

Appointment or Election to Be Discussed at Canton Session of Jurists

PLAN RALLY SATURDAY

Columbiana County Group To Attend Stark Regional Meet at Courtland

Columbiana county will be represented at the regional meeting of the Stark County Bar association, to be held in the Courtland hotel at Canton, Saturday afternoon, when proposed life terms for state supreme and appellate court judges will be discussed by lawyers and judges for 13 surrounding districts.

Appointment or election of judges will be a topic. Three plans for appointing them have been suggested, delegating the authority to the governor, judicial council of Ohio or a commission selected by the state senate. The judicial council is composed of three practicing lawyers, the chief justice of the supreme court, an appellate judge and a municipal judge.

R. N. Wilkin to Speak

Former Supreme Court Judge Robert N. Wilkin of New Philadelphia will lead the discussion.

Professional ethics for lawyers and judges will be presented at the roundtable session by Dean H. W. Arant of Ohio State university college of law, who is a member of the professional ethics and grievance committee of the American Bar association, and is the author of a textbook upon the subject of legal ethics.

The new appellate procedure act, effective Jan. 1, 1936, will be explained by Prof. W. W. Dawson of Western Reserve university school of law, who assisted in drafting the bill. The measure is designed to reduce technicalities and speed up the final decision of cases on review.

The regional meeting will open with a noonday luncheon at which Luther Day of Cleveland, a well-known lawyer and whose father was judge of the supreme court, will speak.

Banquet Saturday Night

The meeting will conclude with a banquet Saturday night, which will be addressed by Charles W. Racine of Toledo, president of the Ohio State Bar association, and by Attorney Frank. C. Dunbar of Columbus, who will speak on the trial of Aaron Burr for inciting insurrection, rebellion and war against the United States by raising an army to take New Orleans.

Former Supreme Court Judge William L. Hart of Alliance, past president of the state bar association, will be toastmaster at the noon luncheon. Attorney Loren E. Souers of Canton will preside at the afternoon roundtable session and former State Senator Walter S. Ruff of Canton, who is a member of the State Bar association executive committee, will be toastmaster at the banquet.

SANTA and the IRON QUEEN

BY SIGRID ARNE

Chapter 2

THE IRON QUEEN

Poor Santa Claus was quite dazed when he was snatched from the toyshop door and whizzed through the dark night sky. He didn't even have his red coat. The wind whistled through his white beard. All he could see was the great, gray arm which had stolen the spools, and the arm circled his own waist tightly.

"Wait, wait—this has to stop," he spluttered. "Don't you know who I am?"

"Phoo-ee-ey!" said a deep voice somewhere near him in the dark.

"Well, do you?" asked Santa.

"Phoo-oo-ey!" said the voice.

"Well, if that's all the language you know," said Santa, "I might as well save my breath."

They passed several stars as they flew. But after awhile, they dropped to the ground. Santa felt his feet touch. The arm was gone. He was standing next to a big white horse with a crimson saddle.

"Humph!" he said, "might as well ride as walk." And he climbed onto the horse's back. Immediately the horse galloped off as if he knew where he was going. And he did. He raced straight for a great stone castle with a huge iron gate.

"Worse, and worse," said Santa. "I know this place from my Christmas trips. It's where the Iron Queen lives. There hasn't been a laugh here in 50 years, and she always throws out the gifts I leave before anyone can see them. What can she want?"

The horse thundered through the entrance. Then he disappeared and Santa felt something in his hand, and there were the singing spools.

"I declare," he said. But he clutched them gratefully.

Two huge doors swung open.

As he stepped through the doors he felt something pushing him along, and he walked through great stone corridors until he entered a huge court. There the Iron Queen was pacing back and forth while a hundred men and women stood silently watching. Poor Santa's knees knocked together as she looked at him.

"Come here," she commanded, and Santa walked toward her.

Tomorrow—The Silver Dragon

The Sunlit Road

BY TOM T. JONES

Unusually interesting is the long-preserved tally sheet of the state and county election in St. Clair township on Oct. 13, 1863, which is now in possession of William Chamberlin of St. Clair avenue. It was in this election that Clement L. Vallandingham, formerly of Lisbon and a son of the first pastor of the Long's Run Presbyterian church opposed John Brough of Marietta for the office of governor.

Vallandingham, it is recalled, made the first political speech in his stormy career at the crossroads in Calcutta, in 1840, when he was but 20 years of age and the year following the death of his illustrious father. It was 23 years after this speech had been delivered that he asked the people to elect him to the highest office in the state.

Despite his apparent popularity in 1840, Vallandingham a republican carried the township by only a small majority over his Democratic opponent. The poll book shows that he received 104 votes to 94 cast for his opponent. As 201 ballots were cast in that precinct three of the electors had evidently failed to vote for either candidate. George E. Pugh of Cincinnati, candidate for lieutenant-governor ran two votes ahead of Vallandingham securing 106 ballots while his opponent, Charles Anderson secured 94 tallies.

The township was Democratic, candidates on this ticket for state and county offices leading their G. O. P. opponents by the narrow margins in every contest except that for governor. Daniel Lawson bested Norman McKenzie for state senator by a count of 106 to 94. For state representative Samuel Quigly polled 107 to 92 secured by Samuel W. Clark whose vote was 92. John Reed, running for probate judge received 106 votes while Cornelius McCurry annexed 93. Other winners in St. Clair township were Henry Fox for sheriff; Peter Boswell for treasurer; Johathan H. Wallace for prosecuting attorney; E. B. Hastings for clerk of courts; James W. Lowrie for recorder; Edwin Pettit for county commissioner; John Fleming for infirmary dictator and Jacob Boston for coroner.

'Three-Minute Journeys'

Gaiety, Color Found in Cuba's Modern Capital

Havana Included in More Than 90 Percent Of Winter Cruises

By TEMPLE MANNING

IF YOU are going south this winter, if you intend taking a cruise, or if you want a touch of foreign atmosphere without too long a journey to find it—then the chances are that you will find yourself in Havana soon.

Revolution or no revolution, Cuba always attracts a big tourist trade. And now that things seem to have simmered down for a spell, it looks like old times for Havana again. The fact that Havana is included on about 90 per cent of the winter cruise itineraries seems to indicate that no political upheavals are expected this winter anyway. Perhaps Havana has learned the wisdom of putting off plots and counter plots until the winter tourist crop has been gathered.

Thriving Metropolis

Havana as a thriving metropolis and business center resembles somewhat many large American cities. But there the similarity ends. Havana is distinctly a foreign city, and its Latin gaiety, its semi-tropical setting, its florid architecture and coloring make it unique. Wide, stately boulevards and avenues bordered by palm trees contrast with picturesque old streets that must be very much as they were centuries ago. The old and the new blend harmoniously and everywhere there is life and color.

So much has been written about the night life and the cafes that one need not dwell on them here except to say that the music and the happy crowds give a musical comedy air to the whole thing.

Handsome Casinos

One of the nicest beaches is La Playa at Havana. There is always a gay crowd at La Playa. And Havana has casinos that rival those of Europe for grandeur and setting. The National Casino is especially impressive and handsome. But most Americans wisely prefer the attraction of jai-alai, perhaps the fastest paced and most strenuous of all ball games.

And always, there is calm and quiet of the cloistered old cathedral that has stood guardian over the city through the centuries. Ask to see the treasure of the church, for their historical value is even greater than their considerable intrinsic worth.

But there is much to see beyond Havana. Only a few hours from the capital through the beautiful Yumuri valley is Matanzas, an old city, beautiful and benign, which contains Montserrat cathedral, the oldest in Cuba.

Another beautiful trip is to Pinar del Rio in the region where the famous Cuban tobacco is grown.

Santa's Suggestion

"I WONDERED," said Santa, "if each one of you in turn would like to take a trip with me. You know how I have to go back up North for toys I have made. I will make many here. I need such a lot for I have to leave so many in shops so boys and girls can see them and write me what they want.

"Oh well, you all know what Christmas is like—or rather what it is like before Christmas as I was with you last year. Yes, you all know the glorious rush, the delightful scramble, the joyous haste, the gay dash of Christmas time.

"But when I make my trips to the shops in villages and in towns and cities I thought each time I could let one of you ride along with me."

"Oh Santa!" they quacked and cawed and cackled and barked and bleated and cried. There was no mistaking what they thought of this idea.

"You like it, eh?" asked Santa. "Then, that is settled. Now we must build a workhouse here!"

Santa and Willy Nilly set to work at once, and before they knew it they could see the beginning of a long, low building, and in a while it began to look like a workshop and after a while it was a workworkshop.

Then Willy Nilly put a stove in it, and Santa unpacked the sleigh which had half-made toys in it and materials for more toys.

"I've some packs of dolls and toy animals deep down in the sleigh which I wish to leave in some shops here, there and everywhere. Who wants to take the first ride with me?" asked Santa.

PLAY BALL

MANY a husband has asked, "WHEN DO YOU FIND TIME TO DO ALL THIS SHOPPING?" And the wife replies:

"Ah-h—I have a new "system" and the beauty of my system is that it works. It's simplicity itself, saves my time and our money—and besides it makes shopping a pleasure.

"Sounds altogether too perfect, what's the dope?"

"Well, in the first place I've learned to adjust my shopping to include several days instead of just Saturday—each evening I read and shop the ads in the East Liverpool Review, find out what's being offered in the stores that we want and need . . . . I therefore know in advance WHERE I'm going, WHAT I'm after—HOW MUCH I'm going to spend and I can do a lot of buying in a remarkably short time—in other words Bob—I'm giving myself a break by PLAYING BALL with the merchant—It's more profitable for us both if he has more time to serve me."

Suggestions For Care Of Health And Beauty

Character Faces Must Have Charm and Magnetism, Be Free of Defects

By HELEN FOLLETT

BECAUSE THE standard of beauty gets more and more exacting and because mere prettiness is a bit cloying, we are hearing more and more about the "character face." It's a nice idea. It isn't enough to present a portrait that is free of defects and blemishes. There must be magnetism, charm — the vital spark one might call it.

There must be something in the composition of the human phiz which tells what kind of a gal one is. Animation is an element. Brains count a lot. Tolerance and graciousness make their imprints.

We all read faces, it being a common diversion. No doubt when Adam took his first look at his spare rib he knew she was the sort of woman who would have clothes line talks with a snake.

Character is revealed by a glint in the eye, the pursing of a pair of cherry-red lips, the reflections of a voice, the movement of a hand. The nagger has nagger lines, the whiner a weak mouth, the bossy woman a chin like a machine gun.

We'd all better watch out, since faces, like characters, are ever in the making.

Those who believe that low-heeled shoes are duddy should take a bird's eye view of the models displayed in fashionable shoe shops. They will find low-heeled sandals in pastel tinted brocades and gold and silver fabrics Yassum! They are worn with evening robes and are more than smart.

High heels have had a long vogue. They were worn years ago by courtiers who hung around Queen Bess. Goodby and good riddance, say we. They're a menace to feminine pedals

Frances Drake

Her face reveals character and charm.

Helping Mothers to Cut Down On Family's Colds

Unique Formula for Nose and Throat Helps to Prevent Colds—And to Throw Off Head Colds at the Start.

SOON CLEARS "STUFFY HEAD"

Mothers are so often worried about their families' colds that they find special comfort in this unique aid for preventing colds — Vicks Va-tro-nol.

Especially designed for nose and upper throat, where most colds start, Va-tro-nol stimulates the functions provided by Nature—in the nose—to prevent colds, and to throw off head colds in the early stages.

Used in time—at the first sniffle, sneeze or nasal irritation—just a few drops up each nostril—Va-tro-nol helps to avoid many colds.

Where irritation has led to a clogged-up nose (a stuffy head cold or nasal catarrh) Va-tro-nol spreads through the nasal passages —reduces swollen membranes — clears clogging mucus — brings comforting relief.

A Practical Guide for Mothers

Each year, more and more families are being helped to fewer colds, shorter colds and milder colds by following Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. Vicks Plan has been clinically tested by practicing physicians, and proved in everyday home use throughout the country. Full details of the Plan come in each package of Vicks Va-tro-nol.

For Bad Cough, Mix This Better Remedy, at Home

Needs No Cooking! Big Saving!

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this home mixture and try it for a distressing cough. It's no trouble to mix, and costs but a trifle, yet it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water for a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, put it into a pint bottle, and fill up with your sugar syrup. The pint thus made gives you four times as much cough remedy for your money, yet it is far more effective than ready-made medicine. Keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

This home-mixed remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It soothes the irritated membranes, loosens the phlegm, and helps clear the air passages. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Pinex is a compound of Norway Pine, in concentrated form, famous for its effect in stopping coughs quickly. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

PIERCE ELECTED HEAD OF NEW GRADE SCHOOL ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

16 Grammar Schools in East Liverpool District Will Form Four Leagues in New Sports Program; Cage Competition Slated to Start in January

Charles Pierce, faculty representative of the Lincoln school, was elected president of the newly formed East Liverpool Grade School Athletic association at an organization meeting in the high school last night.

Other officers chosen were Milton Watson, Grant street, vice president; Miss Grace Smurthwaite, Sixth street and Ira Sayre, Washington.

The association, comprised of the sixteen grammar schools in the East Liverpool district, is primarily a competitive grouping and is designed to supplement the regular physical and health education programs in the schools. Those students not participating in the athletic program of the association will be required to take some form of physical education work outlined by Tom Slusser, high school football coach and director of physical education in the East Liverpool schools. Slusser will act as director of the new association.

The 16 schools in the association will be divided into four four-team leagues for a regular scheduled sports program. The leagues are composed of the following teams: Western — Glenmoor, West End, Pleasant Heights and Washington, Eastern—Garfield, Horace Mann, Neville and Klondyke. Southern—Central, Sixth street, St. Aloysius and Walker. Northern—Lincoln, McKinley, Taft and Grant street.

A basketball league will be the first endeavor of the association. A schedule is now being drawn up for competition in the various leagues to start Jan. 10. At the close of the season the leading teams in each league will meet in a playoff series to determine the city championship.

The grade schools will be given full use of the high school gymnasium on Saturday's and will play their scheduled games in the high school gym on Friday afternoons.

One member of each school's faculty will act as athletic representative in the association. The faculty representative may coach his school's team or may appoint a coach with the approval of the director. The coach need not be a member of the grade school faculty.

Coaches of seven of the 16 schools already have been named. They are: Central—Johnny Mackey, former East Liverpool High school basketball star; Taft—Bud Steffen; McKinley—Porter Mackey; Grant street—Chuck Heasley (the last three named are all members of this year's high school varsity cage squad). Lincoln—Charles Pierce; Sixth street—Russ Horton; and Washington — Ira Sayre.

The Saturday practice hour schedule has also been announced: St. Aloysius 8-8:45, Taft 8:45-9:30, Central 9:30-10:15, Sixth street 10:15-11:00, McKinley 11:00-11:45, Lincoln 11:45-12:30, Horace Mann 12:30-1:15, Neville 1:15 to 2:00, Garfield 2:00-2:45, Pleasant Heights 2:45-3:30, Washington 3:30-4:15 and Grant street 4:15 to 5:00. Either the faculty representative or coach must be present at all practice sessions as well as games.

Eligibility lists will be made up at the beginning of each season. No student may participate in the association program if he is failing in more than 50 percent of his work.

Expenses of the association will be defrayed by nominal fees charged each school in the association and each team entered in the league play. A fee of five cents to be paid by each participating pupil is being contemplated. A small admission charge will be made for the league games—five cents for each adult and high school pupil and one cent for the grade school pupils. The expenses include equipment, officials fees, and awards.

A trophy will be awarded to the championship team in each sport. Director Slusser hopes to have an additional trophy award for the team displaying the best sportsmanship.

No contests outside the association by any grade school athletic teams will be allowed without special permission of the director.

MACKS, RED SOX RUMORED IN BIG BASEBALL DEAL

A's Reported to Have Sent Foxx, McNair, Cramer and Marcum to Boston

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Ill. Dec. 10—Unless every expert is wrong, Connie Mack already has salted $300,000 away in the bank and picked up three or four new players from the Boston Red Sox in exchange for a quartet of his greatest stars—Jimmy Foxx, Eric McNair, Roger Cramer and Johnny Marcum.

And, unless Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis and the National league club owners change their minds overnight, Charles Francis Adams, New England sportsman, will take the Boston Braves back from the league, pour a lot of money into the club and give Bob Quinn, present general manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, the job of guiding it back to the land of plenty.

Mack, it was unanimously agreed by baseball writers and rival major league baseball owners and managers, will announce the deal whereby Foxx, McNair, Cramer and Marcum have been sold to the Red Sox for $300,000 and four players—Pitcher John Welch or Pitcher Gordon Rhodes, Outfielder Carl Reynolds and Outfielder Mel Almada.

Part of the deal was expected to be officially revealed today at the formal opening of the annual major league winter meetings with the rest to follow around the first of the year.

After three weeks of sparring, the New York Giants finally became so aggravated with St. Louis cardinals that they announced Pitcher Roy Parmelee and Allyn Stout, Outfielder Phil Weintraub and Second Baseman Al Cuccinello had been traded to the "gas house gang" for second baseman Burgess Whitehead, a fine fielder but A .258 hitter last season.

SOUTH DOWNS WEST IN VOLLEY BALL LOOP

McKernan Outfit Moves Up In Second Straight Win

Hugh McKernan's Southerners continued their winning streak in the Y.M.C.A. business men's volley ball league last night by winning two out of three games from Howard Smith's league leading Western outfit.

It was the second straight match for the McKernanmen and was their fifth victory out of their last six games. The win brought them within close striking distance of first place in the loop.

The Southerners took the first two games, both of which were hotly contested, and then the West aggregation captured the evening's finale. The scores: 15-12, 15-9 and 8-15.

Thursday's schedule brings Stan Hilbert's East aggregation against the Northerners, led by Johnny Greene.

GERMANS AID BOXERS

GERMAN BOXING officials withhold 10 per cent of all purses for deposit in a fund from which fighters in need may draw after they quit the ring. The management says most boxers don't have a dime when they are "washed up," and they compel all "graduating" amateurs to agree to the 10 per cent deduction before licensing them as professionals.

FOUR DISTRICT TEAMS TO START CAGE CAMPAIGNS

Slated for Action Friday Following Lead of Last Week's Zone Openers

Four more district high school basketball teams will go into action this week-end as a supplement to the opening of the 1935-36 cage campaign last week by Lisbon, Columbiana, New Waterford and Salineville.

All four of the above have games slated for either Friday or Saturday night while Salem, Wellsville, Midland and Fairfield will make their first appearance on the hardwood Friday. New Cumberland may also open its season Saturday night. The down-river quintet is negotiating for a game with Sebring.

Howard Lindell's Potters and Perry Van Hyning's Bulldogs will not make regular scheduled appearances until the following week. The Chester court schedule in its present makeup does not call for a game until after Jan. 1 but Coach Earl Ewing anticipates the possibility of scheduling one or two games before that time.

Friday's card calls for five district games. Bill Storer's inexperienced Wellsville five will travel to Midland in one of the two initial clashes of the season between two district teams. Salem play at Minerva and Fairfield entertains Darlington. New Waterford and Columbiana will be playing their second tilts of the campaign when they meet on the latter's floor. Columbiana took a decision from Mineral Ridge last Friday night while New Waterford was dropping a close one to Lisbon.

Lisbon encounters Louisville in its third game of the campaign. The Blue and White from the county seat lost to Dalton on Saturday night by four points after its Friday win over New Waterford. The Lisbon-Louisville game will be the opening gun in the Tri-County league race.

Lisbon and Wellsville will inaugurate the Columbiana County Big Five championship race in the Bengal lair Saturday night. Little is known at their early stage of the relative strength of the two combines. Both have suffered heavy losses through graduation and are attempting to build squads out of almost entirely green and inexperienced material.

Salineville will play host to Minerva in the other Saturday night tilt. The Salinevillers opened their season last Saturday night with a 23-7 victory over Augusta, in which game their supremacy was never threatened.

BIG TEN CAGE OUTFITS TO START TOUGH GRIND

Conference Fives Boast 10 Wins in 11 Early Season Tilts

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—Big Ten basketball teams, boasting ten victories in eleven pre-season starts, tie into tough non-conference opposition this week.

Chicago meets Marquette at Milwaukee tonight, with Indiana entertaining Franklin, Iowa playing its opener with Carleton as its foe, and Minnesota tackling North Dakota State at Minneapolis.

Wabash plays at Illinois tomorrow, Ohio State opens with George Washington at Columbus Thursday and Northwestern meets Pittsburgh's perennially powerful five at Evanston Friday night.

Purdue, which shared the 1935 title with Illinois and Wisconsin, will play De Paul at Chicago in Saturday's feature battle, De Paul has one of the most polished fives in the Midwest and is out to sweep its six games with Big Ten teams. The demons defeated Chicago, 45 to 25, Saturday, and after Purdue, meet Wisconsin, Illionis, Minnesota and Indiana.

In other Saturday games, Indiana meets Loyola at Chicago, Wisconsin tackles Marquette at Madison, Michigan State plays at Michigan, Carleton goes to Minnesota, and Chicago entertains Wheaton college.

Purdue opened its season last night with a thumping 50 to 37 victory over Western State Teachers of Kalamazoo, Mich. Wisconsin defeated Hamline, 29 to 20, for its third straight early season victory.

KRUEGER LEADS GOLF EXPERTS AT SARASOTA

Wisconsin Ace Holds One-Stroke Margin in Open Tourney

By The Associated Press.

SARASOTA, Fla., Dec. 10.—Ace golfers started in pursuit of Alvin Krueger of Beloit, Wis., in the second round of the Sarasota Open golf tournament today.

Leading a par-shattering exhibition yesterday, Krueger carded a 67 on the first 18 holes for a bare one-stroke margin over a trio of club swingers. In all, 22 men in the field of 127 bettered par 71.

Johnny Revolta of Milwaukee, Professional Golfers' association champion, put together two 34's to tie for second with Victor Ghezzi of Deal, N. J., and Zell Eaton of Oklahoma City.

Only two strokes behind Krueger were a pair of amateurs, one a major league baseball player, and seven professionals.

Willis Hudlin, Cleveland pitcher, plumbed the secrets of the Bobby Jones links and came through with a 69. The other amateur to shoot that figure was Morton McCarthy of Norfolk, Va.

Sam Parks Jr., of Pittsburgh, national open champion, still seeking to get his game in order, finished with a 73.

The 60 low-scoring pros and all amateurs will compete in the 36-hole final tomorrow.

WINNING BIG TEN COACHES SWAP YARNS

If comparative merits of their championship football teams were discussed by Coach Francis Schmidt, left, of Ohio State and Coach Bernie Bierman of Minnesota, nobody got the benefit of their opinions. They were found trading tales of the past season at the Big Ten coaches' football meeting in Chicago.

Southern Methodist Rated National Champion Under Dickinson System

Mustangs Take Title to Southwest for First Time; Minnesota Adjudged Second, Princeton Third

By The Associated Press.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Dec. 10—Southern Methodist university has taken the national football championship—as far as the Dickinson rating system is concerned—to the southwest for the first time.

Dr. Frank W. Dickinson of the University of Illinois, originator of the system by which he has ranked teams since 1924, last night announced the Mustangs as the winner of the Knute K. Rockne memorial trophy, symbolic of the national title. Southern Methodist, which meets Stanford in the Rose Bowl New Years day, was given a rating of 28.01 points, to 27.35 for Minnesota, co-champion of the Big Ten, which won the trophy last year.

Other leading teams ranked as follows: Princeton 26.00, Louisiana State university 24.03, Stanford and California, 23.11; Ohio State, which tied with Minnesota in the Big Ten, 22.21; Texas Christian 22.01. Notre Dame 21.66, California (Los Angeles) 21.25, and Fordham 20.89.

In the event of a victory by St. Mary's over U. C. L. A., Saturday, Fordham would move up to 10th place, with Northwestern, rated at 20.21, taking over 11th position.

Previous Dickinson winners were: 1924, Notre Dame; 1925, Dartmouth; 1926, Stanford; 1927, Illinois; 1928, Southern California; 1929, Notre Dame; 1930, Notre Dame; 1931, Southern California; 1932; Michigan, 1933; Michigan, 1934, Minnesota.

SALEM QUINTET LACKS VETERANS

Brown Squad Contains Only Two Second Stringers From Last Year

Coach Herb Brown of the Salem High school basketball team is facing the same difficulty as that experienced by most of the district cage mentors—that of lack of experienced material.

Brown will have to build his 1935-36 hardwood edition around two members of last year's squad, and these two men were not considered first string men by any manner of means. Eddie Pukalski, Quaker football star, was rated as number six man and Kenneth Shears, a substitute, on last year's Quaker quintet.

Eight of the remaining 19 members of the Salem squad now working out for Friday night's inaugural at Minerva were members of last year's Red and Black reserve squad. The others are all newcomers.

Fourteen of the 31 men on the varsity squad have been working out since early fall and are in the best of physical condition. The remaining seven were all members of the Quaker football team and have just been practicing for the past week. They also should be in fairly good physical shape but will naturally be a little slow in adapting themseves to the change of play.

Pukalski is the only senior on the squad. Six of the prospective cagers are juniors, seven are sophomores and six are freshmen.

The Quaker schedule calls for 10 games to be played at home and six on the road. The Red and Black will entertain Howard Lindell's Potters Friday, Jan. 10. The reserve squads of the two schools will also clash that night.

The schedule:
Dec. 13—Minerva, away.
Dec. 17—Lisbon, away.
Dec. 19—Wellsville, home.
Jan. 3 — Youngstown Chaney, home.
Jan. 10—East Liverpool, home.
Jan. 11—Barberton, home.
Jan. 17—Alliance, home.
Jan. 24—East Palestine, away.
Jan. 25—Massillon, home.
Jan. 31—Warren, home.
Feb. 7—Akron St. Vincent's, away.
Feb. 8 — Youngstown Rayen, home.
Feb. 14—Alliance, away.
Feb. 15—Dover, home.
Feb. 21—Niles, away.
Feb. 28—Struthers, home.

SPORT SLANTS by Pap

Boxing was very much in the doldrums until Joe Louis came along and injected new life with his thudding brown fists. Then almost over night the sport took a new lease on life. And the new found interest was not confined to the heavyweights. Even the tiny flyweights and bantams have attracted huge gatherings.

In the ranks of the smaller fighting men is Freddie Miller of Cincinnati, recognized all over Europe and in most parts of the United States as the featherweight champion. A grand little scrapper whose record covers over 200 fights, he is one of the most active boxers the game has produced, his ring schedule calling for at least two or three engagements a month.

Miller is a classy little left-hander with a pleasing style. He packs a terrific punch. Many rate him the greatest southpaw since Lew Tendler.

His astonishing activity, at home and abroad, should give him a decided edge over the other claimants of the featherweight crown.

The Sharkey 'Color'

Jack Sharkey, former heavyweight champion now attempting a comeback, continues to add colorful (?) new patches to the crazy-quilt that is his fight record. To the "unusual" incidents which dotted his career, such as his ill-advised use of the American flag as a robe when he climbed into the ring to fight Max Schmeling the first time; his efforts to leave the ring when he thought he had knocked Carnera out in their first meeting; his failure to protect himself while complaining to the referee and thus leaving himself wide open to Dempsey's crushing left-hook; the crying spell he staged when Phil Scott claimed a foul in their famous Miami farce and many others equally unexplainable, he adds his twin-knockout of Eddie (Unknown) Winston on the occasion of the launching of his come-back campaign.

It's Sharkey-esque

The incident was typically "Sharkey" in every detail. After the Negro had swarmed all over the former champion at the opening bell only to crumple in a heap when Sharkey landed a left hook on his jaw, the spectators stormed the ring and demanded more than the single minute of fighting they witnessed.

When the crowd hemmed in the ring and refused to allow the fighters to leave, the officials ruled that Sharkey and Winston could start all over again. The second time it took Sharkey slightly longer to dispose of the Negro, a round and a half, to be exact.

On the strength of his past record all sorts of strange things may happen to Sharkey if he insists on continuing with his comeback plans. He might eventually be tossed in to meet Joe Louis.

PAULINO, LOUIS AWAIT GONG FOR PUNCH SWAPPING

Basque Conceded Only Slim Chance to 'Bound' Out Of Bomber's Path

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—For the delectation of the world's most cynical fight fans, Joe Louis, the Belting Benedict, will enter the ring at Madison Square garden on Friday the 13th to swap punches with Paulino Uzcudun, the axe-man of the Pyrenees, for 15 rounds—or less.

At a time when most people are thinking of peace on earth, good will to men, the Brown Bomber of Detroit awaits the clang of the gong that will send him, a sleek slaughter machine, to mow down the Bounding Basque, who is conceded only an outside chance to bound out of the way safely.

Fans Are Fickle

And waiting with him are New York's ring followers, wise to the ways of Tin Ear Alley, who still have to be shown what this fellow from Detroit has—because, when they stopped shouting for Primo Carnera and Max Baer, about the time Joe Louis was stopping the prides of Italy and Broadway, they began to wonder what they ever saw in these two former heavyweight champions of the world.

That's the New York fight fan, with a suspicious resemblance to his gallery brothers in London, Buenos Aires, Seattle and Waco, Tex.

For this reason, the ring-wise here are earmarking pennies, nickles and dimes, in order to take their places when the line forms on the right. Now, they figure, if the Brown Bomber is really all that has been said of him, there is a treat in store. In short, they expect to see the shutter brought in for Paulino, but only after the Detroit slugger has been extended.

There is nothing in the records, however, to show (1) that their prognostication may be correct or (2) that Joe Louis will be extended.

They Scoffed—Then Saw

The New York fight fan scoffed when he heard that a fighter named Louis was belting them out in Chicago, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Dayton, Flint, Peoria and Kalamazoo.

He sneered when the pride of the Midwest arrived to meet Carnera—although Mr. Fan stayed to cheer when he saw the business-like way Louis disposed of the pride of Italy and Harlem.

He laughed off the King Levinsky fiasco.

He booed Max Baer when the Harlequin of the ring was counted out.

But he still sat back and asked to be shown.

Madison Square Garden will oblige, by tossing in another gladiator to test the fistic prowess of Joe Louis.

Paulino, the durable Basque, is a veteran, at home over the long route. He has gone 15 rounds with Tom Heeney, Pierre Charles, Max Schmelling, and Primo Carnera, and 20 with Max Baer. He has never been knocked down or out, and has 37 knockouts to his credit, including one over Phil Scott, the Phantom of the Thames.

He is proud of his lasting ability, and his undentable jaw. He is confident Louis can't hurt him, although the fans are afraid it may be vice versa.

He figures to be the logical opponent to make Louis open up his bag of tricks and trot them all out for the customers, if he manages to remain upright long enough. The New York fan is hoping for the best.

Paulino is Confident

Paulino, who has been fighting a long time and now is 36, may not be equal to the test Louis has in store for him, but opponents for the Brown Bomber are few and far between; some of them, in fact, haven't emerged from the storm cellars into which they dived the night in June when Carnera went to the block.

Since reaching peak form the brown man from Detroit has not been extended very far. In 13 bouts this year it has taken him 10 rounds to outpoint only two opponents and knock-out one; the others ended in two or three, with Carnera fading out in the sixth. Baer, in the fourth. If Paulino is still as durable as he says he is, he may surprise everyone, including Louis, by sticking around, although it seems inconceivable, on paper at least, that he will do so longer than Baer or Carnera did. Baer, too, said he had never been knocked down or knocked out — until he met Louis.

The lure of Louis, cynicism to one side, is still strong around these parts. The man who brought the million-dollar gate back to outdoor fights will pack 'em in the Garden the night of December 13. Right now it looks like a sellout.

OHIO STATE GRIDDERS WILL FACE STRENUOUS 1936-1937 SCHEDULES

Officials Book New York U., Pittsburgh, Notre Dame, Texas Christian and Southern California in Addition to Strong Array of Big Ten Foes

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 10.—Ohio State's rampaging Buckeyes, co-champions with Minnesota of the Big Ten, bit off some big chunks of trouble today in booking opponents for the 1936 and 1937 football seasons.

Not content with leaving it at what Athletic Director L. W. St. John called the toughest schedules the Bucks ever played, they booked these non-conference teams for alleged "breather games":

1936 — New York University, Pittsburgh, Notre Dame.

1937—Texas Christian, Southern California.

The Violets of New York University, defeated but once this season, by Fordham in the final game, will come to Columbus, Oct. 3, 1936.

For the 1937 inaugural, Coach Francis A. Schmidt booked Texas Christian, also beaten but once this year. Schmidt coached at Texas Christian two years ago, coming to Ohio State from there. The game is scheduled Sept. 25, 1937.

The Signing of New York University and Texas Christian completes the schedules for the next two seasons. In 1936 the Bucks will meet Northwestern, Indiana, Chicago, Illinois and Michigan in Western Conference play.

The following year six conference foes are on the slate, Purdue, Northwestern, Chicago, Indiana, Illinois and Michigan.

The New York university, coached by Mal Stevens, former Yale mentor, will entertain the Bucks on the Empire State gridiron in 1938 in a return game. The 1938 contest will be played either Oct. 1 or 29, the lone open dates on the Buck schedule for that season. Albie Booth is one of Stevens' assistants on the Violet coaching staff.

The complete 1936 schedule:
Oct. 3—New York University.
Oct. 10—Pittsburgh.
Oct. 17—At Northwestern.
Oct. 24—Indiana.
Oct. 31—At Notre Dame.
Nov. 7—Chicago.
Nov. 14—At Illinois.
Nov. 21—Michigan.
The complete 1937 schedule.
Sept. 24—Texas Christian.
Oct. 2—Purdue.
Oct. 9—At Southern California.
Oct. 16—Open.
Oct. 23—Northwestern.
Oct. 30—At Chicago.
Nov. 6—Indiana.
Nov. 13—Illinois.
Nov. 20—At Michigan.

BATTLE LINES DRAWN ON OLYMPIC FINANCES

Foes of Participation Refuse to Aid Fund Drive

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec 10. — Battle lines were drawn definitely today between backers of American participation in the Olympic games in Germany, setting out to raise funds, and opponents who avowed they would give no quarter.

Avery Brundage, chairman of the American Olympic committee and new head of the Amateur Athletic Union, called the task of raising expenses of the American athletes a formidable one. Upward of $300,000 is needed to send between 400 and 500 stars to Berlin.

Jeremiah T. Mahoney, who resigned as A. A. U. chairman, was pledged to continue the fight against participation which his forces lost in the A. A. U. convention.

Brundage called it an "issue between principles and dollars." He said he had heard a million dollar "war chest" had been gathered by opponents.

Athletes and committees designated to make arrangements went ahead with setting sailing dates and formulating new ways of raising money.

Brundage insisted that despite the opposition's efforts to tie knots in the purse strings of potential benefactors, the funds would be obtained somehow.

CAGERS TAKE CENTER OF COLLEGIATE STAGE

Buckeyes Prep for Battle With George Washington

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 10.—The football season over, Ohio's college athletes have turned towards basketball.

At Columbus, the Ohio State cage squad prepared for its opening game with George Washington university Thursday night. At New Concord Muskingum's quintet pointed its guns for its opener Dec. 16 with Ohio State.

Coach Harold G. Olsen starting his 14th year with Ohio State's cagers, has seven lettermen from the 1934-35 team which won 13 games and dropped six. He expects to start a veteran five built around Capt. Warren Whitlinger of Zanesville.

The Bucks will meet Evansville, Ind., college here Saturday, and then meet the Muskingum five at New Concord the following Monday.

The Muskingum cage team will take the floor with a goodly set of veterans built around Dean Maely, 6-foot-4-inch center from Cuyahoga Falls. The rest of the team is composed of juniors, with the exception of Robert Steward of Cambridge, a guard and the only senior.

PLAN EARLY DELIVERY

Maj. E. R. Covell Enroute To Pittsburgh to Succeed Maj. W. D. Styer

The Treadwell Construction Co., of Midland, Pa., today was awarded a contract by United States engineers in the Huntington district on the Ohio river to construct two 15-ton derrickboats. The bid was $66,000.

The second low proposal, $67,000, was submitted by the Ingalls Iron Works of Birmingham, Ala.

The hulls will be 48 feet long, 40 feet wide and 5.6 feet deep. They will be equipped with structural steel booms, 85 feet long. The contract calls for delivery within 90 days.

Alex W. Dann Honored

Alex W. Dann of Pittsburgh, president of the Eastern Sand and Supply Co., of which the East Liverpool unit is a branch, has been elected first vice president of the Mississippi Valley Improvement association. A. E. Frosch, head of the Eastern Ohio Co. plant here, has been appointed a trustee of the Ohio Good Roads Federation.

It was announced at Pittsburgh today that Major E. R. Covell of Panama is enroute there to succeed Major W. D. Styer as chief engineer of this district. It was previously planned to make the change next June. Major Styer will succeed Covell in Panama.

A large tow is being assembled by the Carnegie Steel Co. and will be shipped south next Sunday. The steamers Monongahela and Duquesne are now delivering structural steel and other products in southern waters.

INCOME TAX BILL HITS CONSTITUTION SNAG

Maximum Exemption Clause May Prove to Be Invalid

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 10.—Ohio's constitution may defeat the intent of the Ward personal income tax bill as it applies to exemptions for heads of large families.

The bill has passed the house and is now before the senate.

Attaches of the state tax commission pointed out today that under the constitution, the maximum exemption possible is $3,000. That would prevent the head of a family, no matter how large, from claiming more than $3,000 exemption despite the Ward bill granting nominally an exemption equal to that in the federal income tax act.

It is possible, therefore, that the head of a family of five (husband, wife and three children) may pay a greater income tax to the state than the head of a family of three (husband, wife and one child). The latter, however, would pay also a federal income tax, making his total tax payments to both the state and federal governments somewhat larger.

For instance, a head of a family of five with an income of $4,000 would pay no federal income tax, but a $63 state income tax. The head of a family of three would pay only $48.50 in state tax and $28 in federal tax, making his total $76.50.

The head of a family of five with an income of $3,500 would pay $33 in state tax and nothing in federal tax. Another man, with a similar income but heading a family of three, would pay $35.50 in state tax plus $10 in federal tax, a total of $45.50.

SYNOPSIS: Allaire West has followed Terry Willett to the dock, where he has quarreled with Hildez in his effort to force the man to load equipment necessary for Terry's engineering job up-river. Hildez attacks Terry, and Allaire shoots him. Although Terry really goes to jail to protect Allaire, Allaire thinks he has sailed for his job, leaving her in a revolution-ridden country to face the music. And now just after being told by Attache George Fox of the American Embassy that he loves her, Allaire is sailing for the States.

Chapter 14
THE LASH

The little window was seven feet above the floor and had two thick iron bars. A guinea pig would have had to pull in its stomach—

"Not a thing you can do, Bucky," Willett said. "They've turned you loose, but if you keep hanging around they might think better of it—"

"Listen," interrupted Corrigan, "this talk is costing no money. What the hell is the matter with you? Come to, Terry, you've got a job to do."

"Did you find out what I asked you?"

"Yeah," said Corrigan. "The Americans have checked out on the Vera Cruz packet." He grunted. "I hope you know what you're doing."

It was raining outside, but the sickly grey light that came through the little window was enough to trace the grim line of unshaven jaw.

"Soft," muttered Willett. "Soft as dough."

"That guy at the Embassy could have gotten you out of this lousy hole."

"I told you once," Willett said patiently, "the police would have tailed anybody I contacted and I didn't want the Embassy mixed up in this. The police would have tailed you too except that they'd get sick of hanging around the Redmonte Bar."

"Well, all right," Corrigan agreed. "Now what?"

Willett sat down on his cot and twisted his hands together.

"They've given me a choice of three months or twenty lashes," he said flatly. "Hildez is going to pull through, so they've decided to wash me up on a contempt of court charge."

"Three months!" gasped Corrigan.

"No," Terry Willett said quietly. "Twenty lashes."

Bucky stared at him, flabbergasted.

"You're a damned fool."

"Maybe, but I can't stay here for three months. I'd take two thousand belts first."

"But you're crazy!" roared Corrigan. "Lashes!—that penalty is only for plugs and lice and phonies, for drunks and cashiered soldiers—they can't do that! They've got no regular law like that any more!"

"No? Well, they dug up an old law for this American. That's the choice they gave me when I tried to get a suspended sentence." He smiled ironically. "I just naturally surprised hell out of those Spigs when I called their bluff."

His iron control suddenly snapped. He sprang from his cot and seized the bars of his cell door.

"I have to take them, Bucky," he breathed, "because I've got to get out of here. And you have to help me. That banana tramp—"

"Yeah," said Corrigan gently. "Take it easy, fella, I got it. And your freight, too. When do you get 'em?"

"In an hour or so." Willett ran fingers through his hair restlessly. "Twenty; ten easy, ten hard. Ten by the right hand, ten by the left." He laughed. "Like a game. Bet on what's coming—hard or easy—"

Corrigan gripped his shoulders through the bars.

"Take it easy, Terry," he said again. "I'll fix everything and be waiting for you. And don't worry, son. Your old man will be on the job and on his feet too. I know your old man."

"If he isn't," Willett said tensely, "I'll hate myself all my life."

And Corrigan, looking at the powerful young man about to take twenty Spig lashes, was discerning enough to realize he probably would. He'd never be soft again—but hard, hard as only a man who knew the cost of being soft could be.

"See you later, son," he said, and left hurriedly.

An hour later they came for him. He was taken to a small stone room. A wiry little man with grey hair and a face heavily creased with wrinkles was leaning against a well.

Terry Willett's face was as stony as the room. He listened calmly to a police guard with three stars on his collar read the order. At the word, he unbuttoned his shirt and let it drop from his shoulders.

Then he turned and faced the wall, raising his hands above his head to be secured by a small chain clasp. That was to prevent his swing away from a blow and also to hold him on his feet.

The police lieutenant folded his order and put it in his pocket. The prison doctor slipped unobtrusively into the room and sat down on a bench. The wiry little man grasped the handle of a whip with seven heavy thongs of rawhide and noosed it around his wrist.

Something cracked about his back with a stinging snap, brought beads of sweat out on his forehead, sent a million stabbing devils racing up his spine. His cheek twitched, his lips were bloodless. But otherwise his face remained unchanged.

One hard—or was that the easy one? No, the next one was easier. It was delivered with a half stroke from the elbow, but the wiry little man had a wrist of steel. And then the second hard one that snapped and seared and flicked around his ribs.

"Plugs and lice and phonies." A white man who had stayed behind to 'cover." A man who had pitied—who was it?—Speede! He'd pitied Speede, the kanasoaked, bewildered kid in Prepoinoire! Pitied?—he had almost scorned him.

Willett bent his head down between his arms. His forehead touched the cold wall. Again now he remembered how his father had looked that day when he'd started on his race against sickness and desertion.

The officer counted on in a methodical, official tone, and the little greyhaired man transferred the whip to his left hand. There was no expression anywhere in that room of stone with the rain rustling outside the wall.

The small part of a beautiful young Irish mother's soul that had crept into him as he stood on the deck of the "Parajaibo" fled as the lash fell across his shoulders—hard, easy, one-two, swinging your partners, one-two, one-two, a rhythm that pounded in his temple.

Fire Music! Swing of power—there was no room for softness in Terry Willett's world. Lay it on. He and his father had bridges to build, rivers to cross, new worlds to conquer—what was that girl to him?

She was something that had made him feel he was missing something in life, that's what she was.

And if he never saw two heavy wings of honey-colored hair in the reflection of the moon on the Palva, or sensed the fresh young grace of a girl whispered in the breeze through the palms, there would be scars on his back to remind him of her and the way she had walked into the Alvio that night with Hildez sprawled back on Rosina B. Stay hard, the lash hissed. Stay hard, the soft stumble—

It was over. The little grey man wiped his brow with the back of his hand and flexed his wrist.

Willett's hands came free and he discovered he'd been putting a lot more weight on them than he'd thought. He sank to his knees, trembling a little as with a chill.

The prison doctor started to help him up. Willett flung off his hand, took a deep breath, and rose to his feet unaided. He walked steadily over to the bench and sat there impassively while the doctor poked around with a stethoscope and felt his pulse.

Several warm little streams were trickling down his side and his back throbbed madly. The doctor prepared a basin and started to give his back and shoulders an antiseptic bath.

The wiry little man had disappeared and the police lieutenant leaned against the wall and waited patiently, but without interest.

The great strength that was his began to flow back through his body, throwing off the effects of the lash. Willett stood up. The doctor chattered something, but Terry heeded him not a word. He put on his shirt and nodded to the lieutenant.

Then he walked out of that little stone room and the doctor started after him, holding a cotton ball tinged with blood.

"Iron," he breathed.

Corrigan was striding up and down in the rain outside Carcel Municipal when he came out.

"Terry! How do you feel, son?"

"All right," said Willet. "Everything set?"

"Your freight's on board with about a million bananas."

"Let's go."

They got into a taxi. Corrigan regarded him intently as he sat straight in his seat, away from the cushions.

"Hell, huh?"

"I asked for it," Willett said steadily.

Tomorrow, a tragic message is left for Terry.

ERROR STARTS STAMPEDE

VIENNA—Discovery by an observant philatelist that the smiling Lower Austrian peasant portrayed in the new blue six-groschen postage stamp wore his ears back to front has caused a stampede among stamp collectors here. Some 200,000 of the stamps were sold before the mistake was discovered.

Kohl, the ancient cosmetic, has been made of finely powdered antimony as well as the smoke black of burnt almond shells or frankincense.
